

Meet Henry A. Rosenberg, Jr.

Co-Chairman of the Board Rosemore, Inc.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in 1929, Henry A. Rosenberg, Jr. has served as Chairman and Co-Chairman of the Board of Rosemore, Inc. since 1999. He was previously Chairman, President, and CEO of Rosemore's subsidiary, Crown Central Petroleum, for nearly forty years.

A graduate of the McDonogh School (1948) and Hobart College (B.A., Economics, 1952), and a U.S. Army veteran, Mr. Rosenberg joined Crown in 1955 as an Assistant to the President at the company's Houston refinery. During the next five decades he held a number of senior management positions with Crown, including Vice President of Administration, President, and CEO. Under Mr. Rosenberg's leadership, Crown became one of the mid-Atlantic region's most successful independent oil companies—at its peak, the fully integrated company had its own exploration and production, refining, transportation, and marketing divisions, and operated nearly 800 gas stations and convenience stores from New York to Alabama, including more than one hundred locations in Maryland. Following in the tradition of his grandfather, Louis Blaustein, inventor of the drive-through filling station and metered gasoline pump, Mr. Rosenberg oversaw Crown's introduction of the first canopied multi-pump super stations in the 1960s and 1970s, and its expansion into the convenience store market in the 1980s. Since retiring from Crown, Mr. Rosenberg has continued to oversee his family's business interests as Co-Chairman of Rosemore, Inc., a position that he has shared with his son, Frank, since 2012.

In addition to his business ventures, Mr. Rosenberg is also well-known for his involvement in the local non-profit and philanthropic communities. Over the years, Mr. Rosenberg has served in leadership positions on the boards of numerous local and national organizations, including the Boy Scouts of America, the National Aquarium in Baltimore, the Johns Hopkins Health System, the McDonogh School, Hobart College, the Kennedy Krieger Institute, the United Way of Central Maryland, and the Pride of Baltimore.

Mr. Rosenberg currently serves as President of the Henry and Ruth Blaustein Rosenberg Foundation, a private foundation that focuses on support for youth development, arts and culture, health, and education. In recognition of his personal philanthropy and leadership, Mr. Rosenberg has been honored with numerous awards, including Philanthropist of the Year from the Maryland Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals, and induction into the Maryland Chamber of Commerce's Business Hall of Fame.
